FEW MEN FIX COLLEGE MORALS

Characters of Five or Six Students Set Standard, Says D. R. Porter.

TALKS TO "OLDER BOYS"

Conference Under Auspices of Y. M. C. A. Is Opened-Meetings Will Be Continued Today.

Morals of a high school or cellege are determined by the characters of five or six students, declared David R. Porter, of New York, last night in a speech at the opening of an "older boys" conference" of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Porter is secretary of the high school department of the international T. M. C. A. committee. He said the standard of morality in most schools today might be bettered considerably. Henry B. F. Macfarland presided. William Knowles Cooper, general secretary of the Washington Y. M. C. A. welcomed the boys and outlined the work to be done.

More Thinking---Better Thinking

erally agreed that there is today erally agreed that there is today more and better thinking on the part of mankind than ever before. In no way is this tendency more strikingly illus-trated than in the increasing demand city houses. Light and air, as not merely adjuncts but necessities healthful living, are recognized. And the suburbs offer the only opportunity to those of ordinary means to those or organizy means to secure these essentials.

Admitting that the suburb is the proper place in which to live, care should be taken to select the proper should be taken to select the proper suburb. For more than twenty years Chevy Chase has been the undisputed leader of Washington suburbs. It still occupies that position and we know a personal inspection of what is offered there will convince you of it. Our branch office at Chevy Chase
